APPLICATIONS

Filter Booths & Downdraft Tables

For many applications such as welding and grinding, capture and containment of the smoke and dust can be very difficult. The use of downdraft tables and containment filtration booths are two approaches that not only contain the contaminants, but that also provide improved air quality for the operator.

The development of these systems has come a long way in providing both improved filtration efficiency and particulate containment and capture. Here at Dynacom we offer a wide variety of downdraft tables and can provide either a standard filter booth or one specifically designed around your requirements.
